Magnus,

Sorry for the delay. I am really tied up as year end, and my wife has to leave the country shortly.

As I understand it Maureen may have spent the night in jail but I cannot see any confirmation of her arrest on the NYPD website.

I have looked through a number of emails...some of them are a bit compromising for Ian, as he mentions him "allowing her" to stay in the resort....some of them are just rants. I will continue to look and see if I can find anything else.

A couple of things to note in below emails and why I selected them:

1. At least as of October 18 it is clear that there is no lease signed. And, it is also clear that the lease will only be signed if she shows insurance with proper parties listed. As far as I know, no insurance was ever presented, nor does she have any insurance in place at present, as for the shooting event there is some coverage from Michael Brown which is being applied. So, no insurance, no lease.
2. Two officers came the day she was locked out and she showed them some kind of term sheet...not a lease. (I do not have a record of this term sheet) I do not know if it is a real term sheet, or was actually signed by Ian. I can say that I got Nick Kaiser on the phone and he will clearly remember and remember the incident. He tried to point out to Officer McGoven (fro the 10th Precinct) that a term sheet is not the same as a lease, but they decided they were unable to make that decision on the spot and we needed to return the keys.
3. Friday Nov. 8th email from Maureen details a bit of the "drunken Robo-cop" as she referred to me when I entered the club to try to turn off the fire alarms that were blasting all over the hotel. They had not been able to reset. I asked one of DJ's "dancers" to turn off the fog machine, which they had started using again after the NYFD visit and despite the alarms still going off in the hotel!! Mike Brown, who was on security, had no idea how to reset the fire alarm. Paul Brown, who was supposed to be in charge, was not there and I contacted him by phone. He thought we had to vacate the smoke from the building before we could reset, so I unplugged the fog machines and put them with security on the 41st street side and we moved fans into the club area and next to exhausts to blow the smoke out. The DJ freaked out about his machines and then Maureen had her thugs remove me. When I saw Maureen's fabrications about what happened with the Police (no one warned me to stay away--total fabrication, everything was her security) This is when I realized that in addition to being unable to run a business she was also quite dangerous. I mention this also because I was quite surprised to see Paul walking with Maureen in the hotel on their way to the club the day of the recent event. I was shocked that she was there, and mentioned this to Ian in addition to saying we could not risk another violation. Yet, the party went on, with not so surprising consequences. Paul is unable, or unwilling to control her. I find his apologies hard to accept since they were together in the club that day!!
4. The document I had 'promoters' sign was drafted by Nick Kaiser on Oct 31, so they had an unauthorized event that night. We were concerned again that there was no insurance, no lease, and no liquor license. I believe you were at the dinner that I brought the original. This might not be great evidence in a way as although it shows they were unauthorized did getting this document give them tacit approval? This is a point for you and the lawyers....

Happy to talk if you need to.

Richard
